

September 1, 2009

Farm Training Association's Business Education benefits from Wells Fargo grant

The Agriculture and Land-Based Training Association (ALBA), a local non-profit organization fostering beginning organic farmers, was been awarded a grant of $50,000 through Wells Fargo's Technical Assistance Initiative to assist its business education and technical assistance programs.

ALBA creates opportunities for beginning and limited-resource farmers in the Central Coast region, and operates two educational farms as farm business incubators near Salinas and Watsonville.

Currently ALBA provides access for land to 33 beginning and limited-resource farmers.
